

Course Introduction

This course is designed to give seniors a space to discuss relevant matters of faith and culture with one another while pursuing areas of theology study that are of particular importance to them.

Course Description

In this course, students will engage with science, philosophy, literature, media, technology, relationships, and many other areas of life and consider the ways in which these various areas shape their understanding of the gospel and likewise how their understanding of the gospel shapes these areas of life. This course is heavily discussion based interposed with a few larger assignments where students will be asked to read a theological book in its entirety and respond to it.

This is a 1 semester course consisting of 4 units. Upon successful completion students will receive 0.5 credit towards high school graduation.

Purpose of the Course

The purpose of this course is to give students a space to engage with other students about faith and “real life”.

Required Course Materials

Please access the list of course materials from the OC Online book ordering system and order your materials as soon as possible. Oftentimes, course materials are on back order and you may experience a delay in receiving them, causing students to fall behind in their online coursework. When ordering used or rented materials, be careful that online access codes are also current.

Methods of Instruction

This course uses writing assignments, discussions, group work, reading, and essays in order to consider each theological area in the course.

Methods of Evaluation

In this course you will be evaluated by your depth of response to essays, reflections, discussions, assessments, projects and virtual conversations with other classmates. There are no objective exams (multiple choice, true false, etc).
